The Rising Tide of Color Against White World Supremacy T Lothrop Stoddard

First published in 1921, this book's racial predictions are still accurate nearly 100 years later. Lothrop Stoddard accurately predicted World War II, the rise of Japanese nationalism, the future of white colonies in Asia, Africa and South America-and warned against the negative influence of Third World immigration into Europe, North America and Australia. He was also one of the few to recognize the growing threat of militant Islam, and warned in this book that it would become a major world force. Unashamedly pro-white, this book carries lessons which are eternally true, and, which if ignored, will lead to the destruction of Western Civilization. This book does not promote "white supremacy," but points out that the 18th and 19th century view of Europeans ruling other nations was coming to an end. Lothrop Stoddard was not interested in whites ruling other races, but rather in the preservation of white heartlands. This is a hand-edited version which contains none of the Ocr errors which mar other editions.
