THE MISSING ONES is the true account of the disappearance of Blanche and Russell Warren. The young hard working couple disappeared in 1929, seemingly without a trace, while drive from Port Angeles, Washington to their cabin 60 miles away. Eagerly awaiting their arrival, were two young sons, ages 12 and 14. An investigation by the Sheriff's Department failed to find the Warrens. However, clues discovered by investigators led to the belief that the Warren's had driven into Lake Crescent. The case was largely forgotten until 1954 when a recently formed dive club stumbled upon the story. In 2001, they passed the story on to National Park Ranger divers stationed at Olympic National Park. This is the story of how the Warrens disappeared, the 1929 investigation, how the dive club found the story and how the Park Rangers and the dive team finally solved the case.
